Message from the President

Welcome to Cecil College! I am so pleased you chose Cecil College as your higher education home. The College remains steadfast in our vision of “transforming the lives of our students and enriching our community.” I want to let you know that the College community understands that you and your support network continue to encounter COVID-related challenges, and we are here to support you on your path to your educational goals.

Cecil College has enhanced virtual and in-person support to keep you connected to faculty, staff, peers, and your studies. Please utilize the array of online resources including our writing center, math lab, technology resource center, career center, tutoring, library services, iStudy Spots, and testing center by visiting cecil.edu/virtualsupport. We are here to help you, so please reach out to a faculty member or advisor who can assist you in finding the appropriate resources and services.

I encourage you to connect with the College community and become involved with the many available student experiences which will enhance your leadership skills, enrich your individual and team member development, and provide an opportunity to apply the skills you learned in the classroom to first-hand experiences. Visit Student Life to find out about the numerous opportunities that are available.

I am confident that you and your classmates will find a home at Cecil College. Make connections with your faculty and staff early so that they can address your needs and support your career and educational goals. I look forward to seeing you on campus. Congratulations on taking the first steps to your future!

Sincerely,

Mary Way Bolt, EdD
President

“The Early College Academy at Cecil College not only made it possible for me to earn an associate degree while I was in high school but the experience of the program allowed me to be fully prepared for the college rigor at West Chester University. Because all of my credits transferred without difficulty, I am able to save money as well as graduate ahead of time.”

Cecil College, ’20
West Chester University
Graduating from high school or the equivalent and starting college a few months later are significant milestones in one’s life. Cecil College understands that beginning a new educational journey can be exciting and overwhelming at the same time, so we designed a “New Student Experience” that is an intentional and comprehensive approach to assist students with their transition to Cecil College and college life. In addition to the traditional student, any new Cecil student is invited to take these courses.

College Success Seminar
(COL 081, 1 credit)
An entry-level course that presents study skills for courses in all disciplines. Course content from various disciplines, guest lecturers, and orientation assignments combine to provide each student with learning strategies to build student success. Assignments require students to apply academic strategies to other courses.

Introduction to Critical Inquiry
(HUM 101, 3 credits)
This class fosters the characteristics of successful academic pursuit: openness, curiosity, creativity, persistence, and metacognition. In the context of a common reader and the students’ own academic and career goals, students will practice critical thought, information assimilation, investigation, discussion, analysis, collaboration, and qualitative and quantitative analysis as they develop the habits of mind and cultural literacy necessary for college and global citizenship.

THE TRADITIONAL STUDENT

To be successful in college, students need to be able to work independently as well as collaboratively. Learning to effectively manage your time and being proactive when it comes to completing quality work by the due date is paramount to success. College is all about taking responsibility for charting your own course. There are several skills required for your success. Despite your previous education, many of them will be new to you. Cecil College has developed courses specifically for you as a new college student. Both of these courses will help you get started. Read the descriptions and ask an advisor which one is right for you!

The popular worlds of athletics and business team up to bring the fast-growing field of sports management to Cecil College students. This program is designed for students who seek to acquire a complete framework of business concepts and skills that are directly related to the field of sports management. Students will realize the role a sports manager plays in various athletic settings and understand management, accounting, and leadership skills to build a foundation in their chosen athletic environment.

Upon successful completion of this program, students will be able to:

• Assess the economic, technical, legal and sociocultural environments of a business as it relates to sports.
• Apply basic accounting principles to prepare accurate financial statements.
• Formulate strategies to lead and manage organizations, facilities, and events.
• Explain the impact sports has in society.
• Solve problems using analytical reasoning as they relate to sports management and sports leadership responsibilities.

There are many opportunities in life where it is never too late to take that first step. For example, it is never too late for adult learners to change or improve a career path by going back to college to complete a degree that was never finished, or even to begin a new degree program.

Opportunities abound for the adult learner. In the United States, 40 percent of college students are 25 or older.* In addition, there are more than 46 million Americans who earned some college credits but did not graduate, leaving the potential for a degree looming in the future. **

Hannah Larsen is the ideal inspiration for adult learners, having completed her associate degree in nursing (ADN) at Cecil College in her twenties. Larsen initially came to Cecil College in 2012 with the idea of becoming a Registered Nurse (RN) but admitted she was not ready mentally for the intensity of the program at that point in her life. A death in the family left her reeling, shifting her focus to a business degree that would help her with the family business.

“Terrorizing. I looked at the time I would need to invest and thought, ‘How am I ever going to finish these classes? How am I ever going to finish this program?’ I was freaking out about the time thing, but I advise anyone thinking of going back

Hannah L.
Cecil College, ’15, ’21

THE ADULT LEARNER

“Terrorizing. I looked at the time I would need to invest and thought, ‘How am I ever going to finish these classes? How am I ever going to finish this program?’ I was freaking out about the time thing, but I advise anyone thinking of going back

It’s never too late to take that first step.

“I was in a mindset of wanting to save the world, but I was not ready for that path. So I did not go into nursing at that point in time,” said Larsen, who admits nursing and helping others has been a passion her entire life.

Larsen’s story is typical for many young adults as work, family, and friends become all-encompassing. After completing her business degree at Cecil College, she worked for her family’s business for several years before moving on to work at Harford Memorial Hospital in Havre de Grace, Md., where she could utilize her business degree. But as with her family’s business, she found few advancement opportunities in her field.

“Terrorizing. I looked at the time I would need to invest and thought, ‘How am I ever going to finish these classes? How am I ever going to finish this program?’ I was freaking out about the time thing, but I advise anyone thinking of going back to school, take the step because the time just flew by, and I feel much more secure in my future. I am going to be successful. There is so much life ahead of me,” said Larsen.

Furthermore, Cecil College supports adult learners at every turn to ensure their success. Learning support is available online and on campus. The Writing Center assists with lab reports, term papers, application essays, professional letters, computer access, and much more. The Math Lab assists students in the engineering and science programs as well as the business, nursing, and general studies programs. For nursing students, the Veterans Memorial Library with its study rooms, is an essential resource. The library also houses textbooks for most classes for student use. The College has established study areas in every building on both the North East and Elkton Station campuses which are perfect for the adult learner who comes and goes straight from work.

Higher education experts in adult education recommend finding a college (such as Cecil College) that acknowledges who they are at this stage in their lives. Cecil College supports adult learners with the understanding that they cannot drop everything to go to school full-time, and there are work and family obligations.

“As an adult student, my life experiences allowed me to make everything click a lot better. The faculty in the nursing program are very down-to-earth, with life experiences of their own which enable them to be amazing instructors,” said Larsen. “I see some of these students who are 18 in the program, and I applaud them. I think I took it a lot more seriously this go-round. I understood how hard the nursing program was and how much it meant to me. I wanted to get it right on the first try.”

Cecil College’s faculty embrace the life experience of adult learners as an added tool for their education. They acknowledge that the diverse backgrounds these students bring to the classroom provide the kind of insight that only comes through “living and learning.”

For Larsen, returning to Cecil College was a ‘no-brainer.’ “Cecil College is among the top RN programs in Maryland. They are known for the program’s difficulty and the nurses that come out of the program. Employers look for us when our applications go into hospitals,” said Larsen.

The first step toward making the transition back into the classroom for Larsen and other adult learners is contacting the Cecil College Admissions Office. The staff makes the transition as smooth as possible to ensure everything is aligned. In addition, the Financial Aid office provides important information that adult learners need regarding paying for College and applying for available grants. The Cecil College Foundation offers scholarships to help adult learners fund their new career path, and the Registration and Advising staff are available to provide full support to the adult learner who is ready to get started. Hannah Larsen is proof that it is always the right time to return to college in order to own your future.

Let Cecil College help you get started today. Contact Admissions at admission@cecil.edu or 410-287-1006.
