Triumphal March

I am honored that you made Cecil College your higher education home and the place in which you dedicated yourself to accomplish your academic and professional goals. I join you in recognizing the challenges that were overcome, the unprecedented measures that were taken and the bold ways in which you engaged in your academic studies. I applaud you for boldly facing the challenges that the pandemic presented. We sincerely have much to applaud in realizing you were not distracted from attaining your educational goals.

During your time at Cecil College you formed lasting relationships with a diverse and dedicated group of individuals who share your interest in learning. I am certain that included in those relationships are the College's exceptional team of faculty, staff, and administrators who supported you throughout your educational journey and stand ready to continue their mentorship. In addition to recognizing your individual determination, I want to acknowledge the family members and friends who provided you encouragement and support along the way. Today we applaud your successes and congratulate you on achieving your goals.

As a member of the Cecil College community, you will continue to have access to valuable tools and resources to create opportunities and achieve success through networking, career services, and educational programs. Our alumni make up an elite group who share not only a common past but a connection that extends far into the future. I am certain that the future is bright for each of you, and I urge you to keep your goals at the forefront of everything you do. I am proud of your accomplishments, and I am confident that you own your future! Seahawk pride continues to carry us forward. Congratulations!

Dr. Mary Way Bolt

Mary Way Bolt

Hannah Joy Larsen

Hannah is a native of Cecil County. She graduates with an Associate of Science in Nursing. She is also a prior alumnus of Cecil College, having previously earned an Associate of Science in Business. After the tragic loss of her younger brother, Benjamin Larsen, in 2012, she contemplated for many years whether to return to complete a degree in nursing.

Finally deciding to pursue her dream, she returned to Cecil in 2019. She hopes to honor her brother's memory by taking care of those who are sick and in need. "Cecil was the only place for me to complete my degree and pursue my passion for nursing. The entire nursing faculty strives for excellence and has a true love for the program."

Hannah's energetic attitude and infectious spirit during her time at Cecil College have been recognized by all those who have met her. Her dedication and passion for learning have driven her to excel at Cecil. Hannah will be attending Stevenson University in Fall 2021 to work toward completing her BSN. She hopes to one day receive her Master's in Nursing and utilize it to influence the next generation of nurses.

"STUDENT REFLECTIONS"

Danielle Nicole Ewing

Danielle Ewing is graduating with her Associate Degree of Science in Nursing, she is the President of the Nursing Honor Society, and is a lifelong resident of Cecil County. When she is not focusing on academics, she enjoys spending time outdoors with her family, friends, & animals.

"Don't let time stop you from beginning a new journey, the time will pass anyway, so do what you love!"

Jada Kiana Brinkley

Impassioned by an innate drive to be involved, Jada Brinkley was thoroughly active in her studies and extracurriculars at Cecil College. She graduated with a 4.0 GPA in Business Administration demonstrating great excellence in all of her classes. Jada also committed service unto the Student Leadership Council which opened up opportunities to meaningfully represent, advocate, and serve the student body. Most important to Jada is her Christian faith, which she found community at Cecil to honor and glorify Christ Jesus. Next fall, Jada will further her higher education to study Business Analytics at Wilmington University. "Sparked with a newly afresh confidence to succeed in all things I pursue," Jada reflects, "Cecil College has been a great support and I could have not imagined attending any other institution."

The Donald M. Thomey Outstanding Student Award recognizes the student who is graduating with an Associate Degree, has the highest grade point average as of May, and has taken all course work at Cecil College.

Phoebe Hope Calkins

Phoebe Hope Calkins has strived to challenge herself both academically and independently throughout her life. She entered Cecil College at age thirteen as a member of the Homeschool Early College Academy. During her time at Cecil College she drew inspiration from all of her professors and advisors, each uniquely supporting and motivating her through their own particular pedagogical methods. Professor Christine Warwick's passion for biology confirmed her desire to pursue a Bachelor of Science at the University level. Dr. Clarence Orsi was an invaluable resource for her and the LGBTQ+ community as the Allies Club advisor, and as a Composition and Literature professor his instruction and advice brought clarity to her literary analysis. Professor Christopher Gaspare enthused her with a fundamental appreciation for grammar and structure that has informed her rhetoric and writer's voice.

Phoebe serves as Vice-President of Alpha Alpha Theta, the Cecil College chapter of Phi Theta Kappa National Honor Society. She has been an assistant dog trainer since 2017 at The Academy of Dog Training and Agility in Newark, Delaware; and has been studying piano for five years.

Phoebe intends to continue her academic education by attaining her Bachelor of Science and pursuing her Ph.D. in biology.

Prisca Grace Calkins

Prisca Calkins attended Cecil College as a member of the ECA Homeschool program since she was 14 years old. Her experiences at Cecil College encouraged her love of learning and provided an environment where she excelled academically. She is an Alpha Alpha Theta officer, the Cecil College Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa. She was also recognized on the President's List for Academic Achievements every semester since the 2019 Spring Semester.

Professor Christopher Gaspare, Professor Brandie Biddy, and Dr. Clarence Orsi have been integral in Prisca's education at Cecil College. They taught her important academic skills, helping her succeed at Cecil and further her education.

Paul Culbertson has also acted as an excellent advisor to Alpha Alpha Theta, providing an environment where Prisca can enhance her leadership skills. Additionally, Dr. Orsi provided a welcoming community in the Allies Club during the pandemic. Outside of Cecil College, Prisca is has been playing guitar for almost a decade.

Cecil College provided Prisca with a strong STEM foundation. She hopes to pursue a degree in Mathematics and eventually attain a doctorate in Mathematics or Physics.

Department of Business

Jada Kiana Brinkley, Business Administration

Jada is an extremely focused student as demonstrated by her effort to maintain an excellent grade point average over her two years at Cecil College while also working a part-time job. "I am beyond grateful for the great experience I have had at Cecil! The students and faculty are absolutely amazing, and I have been enriched by this college both academically and personally." She honed her leadership skills by serving with the Student Leadership Club and as a member of Amazing Grace, an on-campus Christian club. Jada stated, "I met many great, new people and loved growing in my faith in Christ with other believers." She was also selected to serve as a student representative for the Maryland Association of Community College's Student Advocacy Day in Annapolis to promote support for community colleges through increased funding. Upon graduation, Jada plans to enroll in Wilmington University's Business Analytics program.

Anna Jamison Norman, Accounting

Anna's path to accounting is unexpected and inspiring. After graduating from high school, Anna reflected on her abilities and decided to pursue a path where she would develop many skills, including the discipline necessary to successfully pursue her college academics. She joined the United States Navy where, as an Aviation boatswain's mate equipment third class, she maintained the catapults of an aircraft carrier and helped launch jets. After her honorable military service, she turned her attention to her young, growing family while also pursuing her college academics. She explored several disciplines before "discovering" accounting and never looked back. She credits her Cecil professors for believing in her and motivating her to succeed. Anna is currently pursuing her bachelor's degree in Accounting at Wilmington University with the ultimate goal of obtaining her professional CPA certification and licensing.

Department of Education

Mackenzie Kathryn Mullins, Education

As a teacher education major, Makenzie has been an outstanding student. Makenzie is one of those students who not only meticulously completes her coursework, but also maintains a stellar level of work in comparison to her peers. As a future teacher, she will provide a joyous learning environment and inspire all of her students to reach their full potential. Makenzie's dedication and commitment will serve her well as she continues her studies at Towson University in Northeastern Maryland, where she will dual major in Elementary and Special Education. The entire teacher education faculty is proud to recognize Makenzie for her exemplary academic performance and professionalism throughout her studies at Cecil College.

Department of Engineering and Mathematics

Brent Aaron Sohn II, Mathematics

Brent's outstanding mathematical ability allows him the opportunity to explore advanced topics and to appreciate what he finds there. For just one example, he dove far enough into complex analysis to appreciate a beautiful extension of notion of line integral from multivariable calculus and discover an unexpected result. He is inquisitive, and he looks for deeper meanings in the patterns he observes and for connections between different areas of mathematics beyond what we are able to cover in class. The depth of his understanding is reflected in the questions he asks, which are both deep and insightful, and which leaves a great impression on his teachers.

Department of English

Tré Isaiah Miller, Professional Writing

Tré has distinguished himself as a focused, respected scholar who digests complex texts and brings subtle nuance and insight to class discussions. His essays fulfill the assignments while reaching for larger conclusions befitting graduate-level thinking. Whether he is placing himself in a conversation with other scholars of literature or painstakingly editing a policy and procedure document, Tré has displayed mastery in multiple modes and genres of writing. Beyond the classroom, his devoted, conscientious contributions to Cecil College's student newspaper, The Squawk, helped launch the fledgling publication, and his voice was always a welcome addition to the student-life perspective at Cecil.

Tyler Russell Roland, Literary Analysis

Tyler's instructors describe him as a classroom asset and a conscientious scholar. His thoughtful preparedness, willingness to share his unique interpretations, desire to challenge his pre-existing views, and good-natured approach to learning encourage his peers to join in the process of intellectual growth. His writing consistently demonstrates the same commitment, as well as insightful critical reading, rhetorical skill, and compassion for the experiences of others. Tyler's enthusiasm for literature, his sense of humor, and his dedication to learning in and out of the classroom will make him an excellent teacher of literature.

Department of Health and Human Sciences

Christopher James Laakso, Physical Therapist Assistant

Chris is an extraordinary student who entered the PTA program a self-proclaimed introvert who was a quiet, reserved student that hesitated to engage with his classmates. He has evolved into an animated, engaging therapist who uses both his strong clinical skills and humor to execute effective treatment strategies with his patients. Chris holds the highest GPA in the technical curriculum and engaged in the service learning projects of delivering activity bags to a local nursing home, collecting money for the Cecil Student Food Pantry, and making tie dye t-shirts for the Johns Hopkins Children's Center. Chris also serves as the Class of 2021 historian, taking pictures and videos documenting their journey.

Austin William Miller, Exercise Science

Austin is being recognized for his outstanding performance in the Exercise Science program. Austin has been a very driven and passionate student during his time at Cecil College often going above and beyond in and out of the classroom as it relates to health and fitness.

Kirsten Paige Pannell, Nursing

Kirsten is recognized for her outstanding patient advocacy in her delivery of competent and compassionate nursing care during her enrollment in the nursing program. She demonstrates many of the characteristics of a professional nurse: compassion, inquisitiveness, courage, perseverance, and application of innovative and thoughtful problem-solving to nursing. For this, she has been nominated for the Josie King Hero Award for Students. The Hero Award was created by the Josie King Foundation to be given to those who work hard to create a culture of patient safety – by listening to the patient/family; encouraging them to speak up and ask questions; improving communication; improving teamwork; looking for the good catches (near misses) and fixing those near misses before they harm a patient.

Department of Science and Technology

Kimberly Kay Noddin, Biology

Kimberly is being recognized for her excellence in biology. Kim's work is always top-notch and her understanding of the biological world comes to her with great ease. In addition to having exceptional grades, resulting from her deep understanding of biology, she also excels in the lab skills that biology majors at Cecil must develop in order to move forward in the field. Kim is able to take the information and the skills that she learned in the biology program and use them to directly impact her career working in the Cecil College labs.

Brent Aaron Sohn II, Physics

Brent is recognized for his achievements in physics. As a student, his academic work was always complete and done at a level of high caliber, his laboratory work was done very thoroughly and with high precision, and he posed questions showing great insight and curiosity about understanding the physics of the universe. As a lab specialist, his support and working knowledge of lab equipment made him an invaluable asset to the operation of the physics program. As a tutor, he was rated highly by students for his ability to break down complex physics topics and make them understandable. Brent has earned the highest commendations for his exemplary activity in physics. May it serve him well as he goes forward.

Patsy Williams, Cybersecurity

Patsy exemplifies what higher education is all about. The quality of her work inside and outside of the classroom is remarkable. She's never complained about too much work, and often asks for more. Her engaging participation in the classroom has sparked some lively discussions, which might not have happened without her involvement. This woman will achieve her goals in Cybersecurity, is a willing fighter, and the picture of determination. She is an inspiration to her instructors and her classmates.

Department of Social Sciences

Madison Dannon Duszynski, Psychology

In the classroom, Madison is enthusiastic and professional. She excels at her coursework, showing great promise in understanding the complexities of human behavior. She often sees connections between psychology and biology and values the scientific process to answer questions and solve problems. Madison brings her personality and humor to class, posing insightful questions and creating an atmosphere of curiosity and open mindedness. With case studies, Madison approached patient care with maturity, compassion, and respect. Madison plans to continue her education. She was accepted into the Cecil College nursing program. Her career aspirations are to become a psychiatric nurse practitioner.

Mariana Espinosa-Barrientos, Criminal Justice

Mariana has excelled during her time at Cecil College. In addition to being academically sound in her scholarship, she is always vocal and active in the classroom, taking an active role in her education. Mariana's future aspirations have her expanding her education in Forensic Studies with a Police concentration at the University of Baltimore in the fall. This semester, Mariana interned at the Elkton Police Department with the Criminal Operations Division where she helped detectives work criminal cases. Mariana's dedication, excellence in studies, and her drive to never stop learning sets her apart, and she is sure to make an impact on the justice system.

Doren Louise Thompson, Social Work

Returning students who have been away from the classroom bring a certain quality, maturity, and seriousness to their studies. Doren is no exception. Doren approached each class session, assignment, class discussion as if she was attempting to extract the true essence of the course. Additionally, Doren went above and beyond to keep her classmates calm and reassured when they seem to be getting overwhelmed by the demands of the semester. Doren's compassion and work ethic combine to make her an exemplary student. She will contribute greatly to the social work profession.

Department of Visual Communications, Arts and Performing Arts

Samantha Marie Braun, Art & Design

Samantha's work ethic, enthusiasm, and academic success makes her a standout student in the Art and Design Program. She has evolved from an outstanding ceramics student to an assistant in the classroom, guiding other students with her exceptional talent. Sam is an important part of the art and design team maintaining the ceramics studio, handling gallery tasks and helping students. Her work has been featured in numerous exhibitions and most recently Sam was recognized by the faculty in the Fall 2020 Art and Design Student Exhibition. She will pursue a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Ceramics at Salisbury University.

Makenzie Elizabeth Evans, Visual Communications

Makenzie enrolled at Cecil College after already completing a degree from Penn State University with a Bachelor of Science in Biology and is now pursuing a career in Physical Therapy with an additional degree focus on Photography. While at Cecil, Makenzie has expertly balanced her life, education, and career with jobs at a wedding venue, as a Student Ambassador for Cecil College, and recently working on her PTA Clinicals and an internship for her freelance photography. After taking introductory photography courses, Mackenzie was approached with an offer to join the Visual Communications Department as a work-study employee where she has grown considerably as a student and lab assistant. Mackenzie's goals are twofold: to deliver excellent patient care through physical therapy and to provide unforgettable moments through wedding photography.

Hannah Elizabeth Rash, Performing Arts/Music

Hannah's main focus during the past two years has been voice, but she is also an accomplished guitarist and songwriter. During the past two years, Hannah has become proficient in both classical and popular genres, and has developed her skills as a songwriter. In addition to being an outstanding student in class, Hannah has frequently been seen performing on campus and beyond. She approaches both her studies and her performing with professional focus, and it is clear that she enjoys her work.

THE ALL-MARYLAND ACADEMIC TEAM

The All-Maryland Academic Team award recognizes outstanding academic performance and service to Cecil College and the community. It is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Community Colleges, The Maryland Council of Community College Presidents, and Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society. Cecil College's nominees for the 2021 academic team are:

Katrina Belfield Phoebe Hope Calkins Prisca Grace Calkins Doren Louise Thompson

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The traditional black caps and gowns worn in the academic procession have been the costume of scholars since medieval times when students and teachers wore long gowns and hoods for protection against the cold of unheated buildings. For faculty regalia, the most colorful and distinctive part of the academic costume is the hood which passes around the neck and extends down the back. The color of the velvet edging indicates the wearer's field of learning. The colors of the silk lining exposed in the center of the hood are those of the college or university that conferred the degree. The cap, or mortarboard, is the most popular design for all degrees. The tassel may be black or the color of the field of learning. A soft tam may be worn by the person with a doctorate degree. The tassel of the doctorate's cap may be gold.

An academic stole adorning graduation regalia represents academic achievement. The stole is worn by members of Alpha Alpha Theta (AAT) and the Early College Academy (ECA).

Cords represent membership in an honor society.

Oh, Seahawks

How often have you wondered As you walk these halls together Just who you really are? Has your mind been always open? Have you tried to find a friend? And will you go far?

Oh, Seahawk, look skyward And like a free bird, fly free! And like a free bird, soar higher And with joy – find your destiny!

How often have you wondered As you walk the halls of Cecil Just what the future holds for you? Did you search out all the knowledge That your mind could comprehend? Did you leave a legacy to view?

• Refrain •

And as I pause and ponder These years together, How clear they seem to be ... I know that in the future These memories may dim, But they'll always be a part of me.

• Refrain •

Words by Janet H. Lunsford Music by Ed Hockersmith

HISTORY OF CECIL COLLEGE

Cecil College was founded in 1968 to meet the postsecondary and continuing education needs of Cecil County residents. The College is governed by a Board of Trustees appointed by the governor. The College's president, Dr. Mary Way Bolt, is the fifth president of the College.

Cecil College is a small, publicly funded, open access institution that promotes educational, cultural, and economic development in a changing county of rural northeastern Maryland. The faculty and staff are dedicated to providing an optimal education in an environment that fosters social responsibility and appreciation for cultural diversity. Cecil College offers high-quality transfer, career, credit, and continuing education courses and programs. These options are designed to help students prepare for college, acquire and upgrade their employment skills, or expand their horizons with personal enrichment classes. A variety of support services are available to help students formulate and achieve their goals.

On June 13, 2007, the Maryland Higher Education Commission voted unanimously to accept Cecil Community College's Board of Trustees petition to change its name to Cecil College. The change became effective July 1, 2007.

With a diverse student population, Cecil College enrolls approximately 3,000 credit students and 4,000 non-credit students. Cecil College offers associate degrees, certificate programs, and non-credit program areas.
